Get a Quick Start to Accelerate & Actualize Agile in Your Organization

Would you like to be more agile but are not sure where to start? Have you tried going agile before and failed, or can't align on the best way forward?

Enterprise Knowledge offers tailored three-day workshops for organizations and project teams to kick-start agile by understanding your readiness for agile in context and focusing your resources most effectively to maximize time and effort.

In our workshop, EK activates agile with your key stakeholders in a four-step approach:

1. UNDERSTAND.
We often find organizations misaligned on the meaning of agile, especially outside of IT departments. During this phase of the workshop, EK's agile experts will ensure key stakeholders have a common understanding of agile concepts and benefits, an essential part of starting your agile journey on the right foot.

2. ASSESS.
Going agile has organization-wide impacts. With EK's cultural needs assessment and benchmarking, you will understand what it will take for your organization to go agile so you can focus on the highest value activities.

3. ENVISION.
Agility is not one-size fits all. In this phase of the workshop EK consultants will help you define the benefits of agile most relevant to you, desired outcomes, and how to measure success against those outcomes. This will help focus your efforts and prevent change overload in your organization or project team.

4. PLAN.
In this phase EK's experts will align the information gathered from previous phases into a concise, contextualized strategy for agile transformation. Then, we will co-create a starter backlog of activities that can be acted on immediately after the workshop. This backlog will keep the momentum of the agile efforts going and help stakeholders understand priority and progress.

Get the most out of agile and make sure it sticks with EK's agile workshop!
